BIG VOTE EXPECTED.

Democrats Confident, Republicans Hopeful in Montgomery County.

Special Correspondence of The Star. ROCKVILLE, Mr., November 1, 1909. There are indications that a big vote will be polled in Montgomery county tomorrow. Both parties have worked hard in an effort to get their voters to go to the polis, and have also paid special attention to instructing their illiterates how to mark the ballot, and it is thought vote be cast, but there will be fewer spoiled tickets than formerly. The polls will be at the usual places and will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. Because of the numerous candidates the count will be slow, and it is probable the result in the county will not be definitely known until long after midnight.

The democratic managers are confident the county will give every democrat on the ticket a substantial majority, and proposed suffrage movement. Robert G. Hilton, chairman of the state central committee for the county, places the majority of Hering, for controller, at 700, and says the county will give Worthington, for chief judge of this circuit, a majority of 600. He also thinks the entire democratic county ticket will be successful, with majorities ranging from 200 to Willis B. Burdette, chairman of the republican county committee, concedes several hundred majority for Hering and Worthington, democratic candidates for controller and judge, respectively, claims the prospects are good for the election of at least a portion of the republican county ticket. He admits the county will give a majority for the constitutional amendment, but does not concede more than 300. Mr. Burdette declares the election of Hammond Urner, as chief judge of this circuit, composed of Montgomery and Frederick counties, succeed Judge Glenn H. Worthington.
